Valentine's Day film to kick off Summer Cinema Series

Treat your Valentine to a free movie under the stars when the City of Bunbury's Love Where You Live Summer Cinema Series kicks off for 2016 on 14 February.

Romeo + Juliet (Rated M) will be the first of five films in the series, and will be held in Council Gardens from 7pm. So bring along a loved one, a picnic blanket or chairs and something to eat while the City treats you to Baz Luhrmann's brilliant adaption of a Shakespearean classic.

Love Where You Live is held in parks around the city and is an event that encourages the local community to celebrate everything that makes their part of Bunbury special.

Bunbury Mayor Gary Brennan said it was a unique event that encouraged the community to come together.

"Last year's Love Where You Live series was a big success with hundreds of people attending screenings in the beautiful surrounds of our local parks," Mr Brennan said.

"It is events such as these which help to reinvigorate a sense of belonging in the community."
