Toilet facility on the way for ski beach

Beachgoers will be able to access a convenient new public toilet facility at the Marlston ski beach after the City of Bunbury confirmed a start of construction this week.

The facility will be an improvement on the previous amenity, which was removed as part of the Koombana North redevelopment, with an extra cubicle included in the design.

It will also be closer to the beach than the previous facility with a convenient location earmarked between the tennis courts and the existing path.

The facility is designed with one unisex accessible cubical and one unisex ambulant cubical.

The restrooms are being pre-fabricated with a construction time of 13 weeks and allowing for the Christmas break, it is expected to be ready for installation in March/April.
